STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The Indian Medicine and Homoeopathy Central Council Bill, 1968 was introduced in the Rajya Sabha on the 27th December, 1968 for the setting up of a composite Central Council for Indian Systems of Medicine and Homoeopathy. The Joint Committee of Parliament considered the Bill. The exponents, not only of Homoeopathy but also of the three systems of Indian Medicine viz., Ayurveda, Siddha and Unani asserted before the Committee that the basic concepts of the Indian Systems of Medicine were different from the fundamentals of Homoeopathy and as such a separate Council for Homoeopathy should be provided. For the proper growth and development of all the four systems, the Committee recommended two separate Central Councils: one for all the three Indian Systems of Medicine and the other for Homoeopathy.

- 2. Moreover, minimum standards for admission, duration of course of training, details of curricula and syllabi of studies of Homoeopathy and the title of the degree or diploma vary from State to State and even from institution to institution in the same State. The Homoeopathic Advisory Committee which was appointed by the Government of India, have recommended that in order to maintain uniformity, all the courses which are less than 4 years in duration shall have to be brought to the standard of the 4-year course (viz., D.H.M.S.) as prescribed by that Committee. A similar recommendation in this regard has also been made by the Central Council of Health.
- 3. Further, a few States have constituted State Boards or Councils, either by Legislation or by executive orders, for the purpose of registration of practitioners in Homoeopathy as well as recognition of medical qualifications in Homoeopathy. There is, however, no Central Legislation for the regulation of practice or for minimum standards of training and conduct of examination in this system of medicine on an all-India basis. A statutory Central Council on the lines of the Medical Council of India of the modern system of medicine is a pre-requisite for the proper growth and development of Homoeopathy.
- 4. The main functions of the Central Council of Homoeopathy would be to evolve uniform standards of education in Homoeopathy and the registration of practitioners of Homoeopathy. The registration of practitioners on the Central Register of Homoeopathy will ensure that medicine is not practised by those who are not qualified in this system, and those who practise, observe a code of ethics in the profession.

The Bill is intended to achieve these objectives.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

The scheme of this Bill centres round the registration of practitioners of Homoeopathy on the Central Register of Homoeopathy and maintenance of minimum standards of professional education in this system of medicine. - 4. Under clauses 17 and 18 of the Bill, the Central Council will have to appoint inspectors and visitors to inspect or visit any medical institution, college, hospital or other institutions where education in Homoeopathy is given or to attend any examination.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

- 1. Clause 32 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to make rules to carry out the purposes of this Act. These rules will relate mainly to the conduct of elections of the members of the Central Council of Homoeopathy.
- 2. Clause 33 of the Bill empowers the Central Council of Homoeopathy to make regulations, not inconsistent with the provisions of the Act or the rules made thereunder, to carry out the purposes of this Act, with the previous sanction of the Central Government. Such regulations may provide, inter-alia, for the manner of the election of the President and Vice-President, the management of the property of the Central Council, the resignation of members, the powers and duties of the President and Vice-President, the summoning and holding of meetings of the Central Council and its committees, the functions of the committees, the powers and duties of the Registrar and other employees, the appointment, powers and duties of the inspectors and visitors, minimum standards of education and examinations, mode of applying for registration on the Central Register, the standards of professional conduct and etiquette and code of ethics to be observed.
- 3. The matters in respect of which rules and regulations can be made are generally matters of procedure and administrative detail and it is not practicable to provide for them in the Bill itself. The delegation of legislative power is therefore of a normal character.
